At the March Meeting...

Enthusiasm for Gallery activities continues to characterize discussions at the monthly business meetings. On March 6, Kay Chester, treasurer, noted that returns on artist membership dues notices are ahead of last year. President Norman Legassie reported that the Constitution Committee is pressing on with their schedule of meetings to revise specific portions of the LAA Constitution. Members are seeking ways to honor retired and inactive artist members, and fund-raising efforts and proposals continue to be a mainstay of the conversation.

WANTED

Donations of antiques, collectibles, household or art-related items for LAA's first gigantic TAG SALE, Friday and Saturday, June 2-3. We are already collecting and selecting LAA memorabilia—artist's supplies, objets d'art—and we need more. All donations will be sold to benefit the Association's exhibits and programs, and to continue the restoration and preservation of our historic building. Please call 434-7802, or write LAA, P.O. Box 222, Old Lyme CT06371.

In the Gallery...

"A Connecticut Student and Teacher Art Show" was on view March 11-12, 18-19. Diana Wolf-Carfi, chair of the show and art teacher at Deep River Elementary School, said, "Everyone gets involved, and the art work is really representative of student work." The exhibit celebrated National Art Education Month and is the fifth annual regional student show hosted at the Gallery.

The art work on display was one of five student exhibitions on the shoreline, but the only show statewide featuring the work of teachers as well as students— from kindergarten through twelfth grade. Twenty-seven schools participated, filling the Gallery with almost 300 pieces of art.

"Fiber Options." We are fortunate to live in a region with a rich tapestry of talented artists and artisans. As the LAA continues its commitment to offer our spacious gallery to cultural and educational organizations for the next few weeks, we will divert our attention from representational artists to host "Fiber Options." This juried show, held every two years by members of the Handweavers' Guild of Connecticut, will be on view in the Gallery from Friday, March 24 through Saturday, April 15. Hours are 10 to 4, Monday through Saturday, and 1 to 4 on Sunday.

Now marking its 47th year, the Guild draws its membership from weavers, spinners, and dyers in Connecticut and neighboring states. It offers members an opportunity to study and exchange ideas through workshops, classes, and lectures given five times a year, as well as monthly meetings in five regional groups.
